Supporting English Learners with Disabilities

Date and Time: Thursday, March 12 8:30 am - 3:00 pm

Address: RCOE Conference Center
4280 Brockton Avenue
Riverside, California 92501

Dually Identified Students are Multilingual Learners with special needs, i.e. students with an Individual Education Plan (IEP) who have also been identified as an English Learner. Dually Identified Students have unique needs based on their disability, but all students who are identified as English Learners -- with or without an IEP -- are entitled to English Learner Services. During this session participants will discuss the legal requirements, best practices, and resources to assist them in appropriately determining what and how to proceed with instructing Dually Identified Students. Participants will become acquainted with the guidance provided by the key CDE resource, the California Practitioners' Guide for Educating English

Teaching for Mathematical Thinking: Positioning Emerging Multilingual Students to Think and Reason Mathematically

Date and Time: Thursday, March 12 9:00 am - 3:00 pm

Address: RCOE Conference Center
4280 Brockton Avenue, Riverside, CA 92501, USA

If we are to prepare our students for the changing world they will inherit, we must teach them to think and reason mathematically. This is our greatest teaching challenge—not because students cannot learn to think mathematically, but because we struggle to teach in ways that privilege thinking and discourse. Students who are developing mathematical literacy, as well as languages, need spaces to explore mathematical thinking and engage in mathematical discourse. We need to change our habits if we want students to change their habits.

We will explore teaching practices that support mathematical thinking and reasoning for emerging multilingual learners. These practices include strategies, shifts, and reasoning routines that will support a community of learning grounded on mathematical discourse, which is essential for English learners to develop mathematical thinking, agency, and language.

2025-26 New School Counselor Academy (NSCA)

Date and Time: Tuesday, March 17 9:00 am - 2:30 pm

Address: RCOE Conference Center
4280 Brockton Avenue
Riverside, CA, USA

Is your school counseling program ready to go to the next level? Attend a series of six (6) workshops (a combination of in-person and virtual), focused on school counseling leadership, advocacy, structure, and systems creation for your school counseling program. The New School Counselor Academy is for new school counselors with 1-3 years in the field and school counselors who changed levels and are new to elementary, middle, or high school. In the fall, we will focus on program foundation, intentional counseling practices, essential counseling forms, office routines, and calendaring your first 100 days in the building. In the spring, we will help you identify tools to assess your program, data sharing, establishing program outcomes, and areas of growth. Additional topics covered include the multi-tiered System of Support (MTSS), counselor and administration collaboration, legal and ethical best practices, needs assessments, counselor burnout, and much more!

Join us for:

- Equipping new school counselors with resources and strategies to build comprehensive and intentional programs that align with LCAP needs, MTSS paradigms, and the American School Counselor Association (ASCA) national model framework.
- Acquire skills in effectively delivering and managing services to maximize student achievement and socio-emotional development.
- To grow and learn from regional school counselor leaders while developing an internal network of professional development.
- Learn how to lead with data in a new setting and assess your program for growth year after year. • Develop a network of support.
